Beth Ruyak to Host “Insight” Veteran Reporter Joins Capital Public Radio

Sacramento, Calif – March 29, 2012: Emmy Award winning journalist Beth Ruyak is the new host of “Insight,” Capital Public Radio’s daily public affairs talk show. Over the last few months, Capital Public Radio conducted a nation-wide search to fill the position vacated by Jeffrey Callison in December.

Ruyak is a seasoned journalist and host who has worked locally and nationally. She’s covered five Olympic Games, three Tour de France bicycle races (becoming the first woman television journalist to cover the event) and guest co-hosted “Good Morning America.” Beth brings personality and warmth to “Insight” and has experience reporting in-depth news. Beth’s first day as host is Monday, April 9.

“Beth’s high level of professionalism and experience will be a welcome addition to our program. As California’s Capital, we have a responsibility to conduct the highest level discourse. Beth Ruyak was selected for her ability to do exactly that,” says President and General Manager Rick Eytcheson.

More information about Beth Ruyak and “Insight” can be found at www.cpradio.org/insight.

“Insight” airs Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Capital Public Radio’s News Station. “Insight” is available anytime online at cpradio.org or through the Capital Public Radio app for iPhone, iPad and Android.
